The meeting at the First Methodist Episcopal church for the discussion of sociological questions was well attended last evening. The subject was "The Municipality, its Origin and Powers." C. E. Allon made the principal speech of the evening, which was followed by short speeches by Professor Schurtz, Henry W. Lawrence and others.

Mr. Allen traced the origin of municipal government from its earliest period down to the present time, showing the several stops through which it pussed. In regard to the pewers and purposes of the municipality, the speaker declared that they organized for mutual advantage and projection, to do for the individual that well as the speaker took the ground that street.

The speaker took the ground that street cars should be placed in the category of public utilities and that they should be owned and operated for the purpose of transporting the people, rather than that of making money, as is now the case. He insisted that it would be foolish upon the part of the municipality to turn over the public streets to a private corporation or private individual, but no more unreasonable than to do the same thing with the street car lines. His speech was liberally applicated.

New Year's day, Mr. Henry announced that the next meeting will be held on the evening of Monday, Jan. 2.
